CHARLESTON, S. C., April 30.—President Roosevelt swung out to sea this morning aboard the swift new cruiser Philadelphia for a week's cruise designed to take him as far as possible from official cares.

Standing on the rail the chief executive smiled broadly as the trim fighting ship eased away from the Charleston navy yard and presumably headed in the general direction of the Virgin Islands.

A 21-gun salute from the Philadelphia's three-inch saluting battery was the only ceremony marking the president's departure. At his express request, the customary air honors had been omitted.

Extended Greetings
When the presidential special arrived at North Charleston station from Washington, Governor Olin D. Johnston and Mayor Burnett Maybank extended the greetings of South Carolina.

Waiting autos took the presidential party three miles to the navy yard over a route that avoided the city. Mr. Roosevelt was immediately piped over the side of the sleek new Philadelphia and greeted by her skipper, Captain Jules James, of Danville, Va., as white-uniformed sailors manned the rails.

It was nearly an hour before the cruiser got under way. In the course of an informal chat with Admiral William H. Allen, commandant of the navy yard, the president indicated he probably would terminate his fishing cruise here at Charleston late next week—although he still insisted to newspapermen that his plans were indefinite as to disembarkation.

Congress Considers Ending
'Blank Check' Appropriations(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 30.—An end to "blank check" appropriations to President Roosevelt arose as a distinct possibility today when the house appropriation committee disclosed plans to allocate funds in the huge omnibus recovery bill directly to agencies charged with their expenditure.

Responsible committee members said strong sentiment exists among Democrats and Republicans alike to terminate the practice of lump sum appropriations to the president for re-allocation to FWA, WPA, the National Youth Administration and other agencies.

Marking another phase in the growing independence of congress, the move within the committee, if carried out, would have the direct effect of curbing existing executive powers over expenditure of billions for relief and emergency purposes.

Members said the step was prompted by increasing desire to bring as much as the $4,122,000,000 loan-and-spend program under the control of congress as possible. Legislative limitations heretofore unexercised in previous appropriations for new deal spending likewise are receiving serious consideration, they declared.

Britain's Pact
With Mussolini(International News Service)
BARCELONA, Spain, April 30.—Menaced by insurgent troops on the battlefields, the Spanish government today energetically protested to Great Britain today against the recently concluded Anglo-Italian pact of friendship.

The pact, the Barcelona regime contended, confirms Italian intervention in the Spanish civil war and favors the Insurgents by means of its policies.

This contention was based on the fact the Anglo-Italian agreement calls for removal of Italian troops from Spain upon termination of the Spanish war, thereby tacitly admitting the existence of Italian intervention.

Purpose of the early-morning conference was not divulged, but it was believed the 40-year-old governor's plans for a swing through other midwest states, including Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas, was one subject under discussion.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Demands for limitations upon executive agencies to make the monopoly investigation recommended by President Roosevelt arose in congress today, with Senator Copeland (D) of New York, declaring the administration "is on a witch-burning campaign."

Define Field?

He urged that congress in appropriating $500,000 as proposed by President Roosevelt in his message yesterday define the field of inquiry "so that agents of the government will not be allowed to harass business men with a fishing expedition."

From Senator Burke (D) of Nebraska, a member of the senate judiciary committee, came notice he would insist upon agencies designated for the investigation presenting detailed estimates on how they propose to spend the money.

"I assume that heads of the agencies selected for the investigation will come before the judiciary committee to explain what they intend to investigate," Burke said, adding he favors the investigation.

Details Uncertain
While the president in his message recommended that the department of justice, federal trade commission, securities and exchanges commission and other agencies participate in the investigation, details of how the inquiry is to be coordinated were still to be developed.

Rumblings of a bitter fight over the president's request for legislation at this session of congress to abolish bank holding companies were heard. Senator Carter Glass (D) of Virginia, has pending a bill to "freeze" the holding companies at their present number and regulate but not abolish them.

High School Seniors
Score Play Success

They proved the soundness of an old argument in the senior high school auditorium Friday night—high school actors can do a job if they are given plays within their reach. The June class of 1938 presented "China Boy," a comedy by James Reuch and Tom Taggart, and while the play might never have been considered for the Pulitzer prize, it is the type of play for high school age. Clean and wholesome, with comedy sprinkled throughout like pepper in a tannale. No fat parts for a couple of the cast, but a fair share of lines for everybody in it.

It is the story of the Parker family, an average American family that might live next door to you, a couple of kids who have the usual wacky ideas of seventeen, a bunch of friends of the same type. HARRISBURG, April 30.—A long, searching and grueling investigation in the Democratic administration of Gov. George H. Earle which might occupy the entire summer was envisioned here today with calling of a grand jury to investigate charges of bribery and coercion in the state government.

Grand Jury Will
Start May 11—six days before the primary election—will be in charge of District Attorney Carl B. Shickel, Republican prosecutor of Dauphin county. Its investigation was expected to be one of the most sweeping in the state's history.

Simultaneously, the administration will conduct its own inquiry. Attorney General Guy K. Bard, named two days ago planned to announce his choice of a special prosecutor to conduct the justice department investigation today.

It was learned Attorney Albert L. Thomas of Meadville, who as special prosecutor obtained an almost 100 per cent record of convictions in the Kefauver massacre cases, had been approached by Bard. Thomas admitted he had been contacted, but refused to comment further.

To Consider Bribery Charges
The grand jury was expected to consider first of all bribery charges leveled by Charles J. Margiotti, independent Democratic candidate for governor who was removed Wednesday.

CHICAGO, April 30.—What seemed certain to become one of the most hard-fought labor disputes in American industrial history loomed today following the proposal of the Association of American Railroads in an executive conference here to reduce wages for all the industry's 827,000 employees 15 per cent.

Although labor union heads were quick to register strong objections to the proposal and announce they would not submit to pay cuts, no strike or other decisive action could be taken under the law for at least 60 days.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FRIGHTENED BY STORMS
"Dear Dr. Myers: My three and a half-year-old boy is deathly afraid of electric storms. We have never frightened him about lightning, but have tried to teach him that it is pretty to look at. We have two other children who are not in the least afraid." She enclosed a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

My answer was about like this: Often little children are frightened by the thunder clap. This sudden noise alone may induce the fear. However, older persons will often cringe, jump or express fear and anxiety in some other way during an electric storm. Little children sense the fears of others.

First work on yourself and other adults to make sure all control themselves well during an electric storm, especially in this child's presence, and to do so in his presence. Emotional control is largely a matter of habit. If he is awakened in the night by a clap of thunder, go to him. Be near him, indeed, when you know an electric storm is approaching. Calmly talk to him then. Improvise some fanciful yarns about the raindrops, wind, lightning flash or thunder. Tell or read his favorite story. Get him to watch with you the play of lightning and hear the distant thunder after the storm has almost passed. Be patient. Any terrifying fear that may come in the twinkling of an eye may linger for years.

Adults who suffer from great fear of electric storms might gain help from watching a receding storm, especially in the company of others who can enjoy such phenomena. It might make the fearful person feel more secure if he will wear rubbers during the storm, standing in the middle of the floor, not leaning against the wall or furniture. The rubbers serve as insulators.

Baby Eats Hair, Coal, Strings

Another mother enclosed a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, with this letter:

"Please advise me what to do for a baby 25 months old who has a habit of eating such things as: hair, coal and strings. He is sensitive and fears a spanking. I have tried scolding and slapping. I am sure he remembers my scolding because when he is in the act and I walk into the room he quickly stops. Even my talking nicely to him doesn't help."

My reply: While spanking is desirable to break some habits, this like thumb sucking and nail-biting, is not one of them. Spanking cannot be effective unless it always occurs right after the forbidden act. There must be no exceptions. But the child can eat these foreign objects many times when you cannot see him. Give up scolding and spanking. Cut a slit in the top of a coffee can. Pick some small things from the floor or ground and put into it. Rattle the can. He will imitate. When he hands you some such things he has found, warmly praise him so he will do so again. Be with him more or have others with him while he is out of doors. Try to keep him busy with play things. If this persists, it might be well to have a good doctor check his diet.

I DON'T KNOW THE ANSWERS

Somebody's always asking questions, making up lists printing those lists, testing your stock of information.

They say: "How many of these questions can you answer?"

Who out the Gordian Knot?

What country makes the most matches?

Why did Scott write the Weavers' novels?

Who invented dynamite?

What is a diatom? What author died in Samoa? And is a sponge an animal or a plant?

And the answers—to save you the trouble of looking on page 68—are: Alexander, Sweden, a one-celled plant, Sivertsen, an animal.

But ask me no questions and I'll tell you no lies. Ask me no questions, either. I'm not interested.

Neither do I wish to show my ignorance. Let others get out their pencils and wrinkle their brows and build up pride and store up humiliation for their memories. I don't care for that sort of thing.

I don't want to be hypocrisized. No intelligence tests for me. Neither do I wish my palm read.

Let the doctor thump my chest, if he is interested, but I WILL NOT have my head examined. If ignorance is bliss, PLEASE let me be happy.

What do I care how many facts have lingered in my memory through the years? What is it to me how much curious gold has been caught by the riddles of my mind?

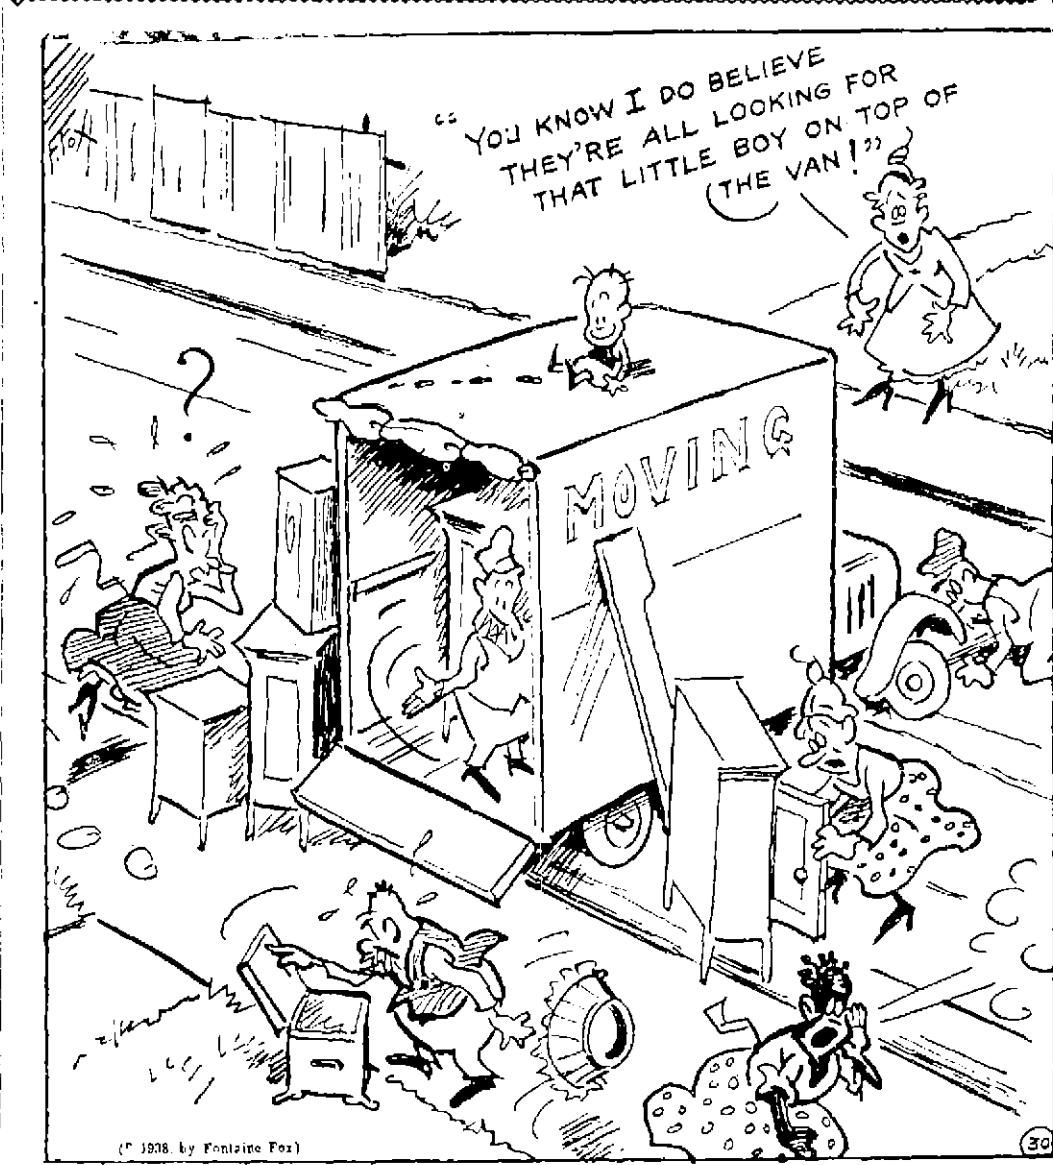

I do not know why time flies when one is young. If I do not know if riches and power make death easier for men, though I doubt that they do. I do not know whether children believe all their fathers and mothers tell them—but I do know it's good for them to believe in Santa Claus and good for youths and maidens to believe in love, and good for fathers and mothers to think their own adventure was wise, and good for grandfathers and grandmothers to be sure the struggle and the tears and the laughter have, after all, been good.

I'm not interested in the answers I find here and there in books of facts. All I care about are the good answers I get from living.

Japan's famous woman author says American men are afraid of their women "to the point of foolishness." So that's why they think we are afraid of anybody in a kimono.

The World At A Glance

News Concerning Crime
Why Five Must Go To Chair
Story Hidden On Inside Page

By LESLIE EICHEL, Central Press Columnist

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS
THERE WAS A BIT of news hidden on an inside page in a New York paper the other day. Five youths had been sentenced to the electric chair for the death of one detective. The main facts in their case, however, were not in the sentencing, or what the prosecuting attorney said, or the defense attorney said, or the comments of the judge. The main facts were contained in a report by the chief probation officer. And those facts read as if they were a dramatic, tragic story.

The chief probation officer traced the lives of those youths, none yet of age, from their birth to Sing Sing. They were born and lived in squalor. The majority had shown unusual intelligence. Hard times had caused them to lose their jobs. Then the slum area in which they lived claimed them. They died for a life of crime.

And now the more sensational papers can their pictures across their pages, pictures of youths being led chained to their doom. And other papers print moralistic stories on the futility of crime.

But the most stubborn fight Mayor La Guardia has had in New York concerns tenements and slums. Interests who benefit through slums fight their eradication and the erection of municipal or government housing.

Mayor La Guardia and the federal government, however, proceed apace. Similar conditions exist in other cities, even the smallest cities.

Crime, of course, is the result of environment and poverty—and the loss to the nation annually of the youth who go astray, and end in the penitentiary or the electric chair is appalling.

WHAT GOOD?
People of a century hence may look back upon our prison system with the same horror that we look back upon the tortures of the middle ages.

Our county jails remain cesspools of crime. Our penitentiaries are the main institutions that crush spirit and hope.

Reformation comes only with hope and education—and an opportunity to work later.

Our penal system is making more criminals, not fewer, more of a problem, not less.

SEEMS TRUE
Here is an interesting item from Public Affairs committee, New York.

Real wages found to be 6 per cent under 1929. Public Affairs pamphlet finds that workers are hardly hourly wages, but less in weekly pay envelope than before depression.

Many persons on wages and salary will certify that to be the case. And the investor is getting less on his money—2 and 3 per cent instead of 4 to 6 per cent.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

CUI BONO.

There may be a scandal in the T.V.A. Whether there is one or not why does the Federal government wish to enter the Public Utility field? Is it an honest desire to save the citizens of the nation money or is it only to provide more jobs for political hacks?

You know that Public Utilities pay a share of a sum in taxes and government owned power plants will neither pay taxes or show a net profit in operation. The whole nation will pay taxes not only to build these plants and distribute the light and power but will continue to pay taxes to run the deficits in the operation of the plants.

State Commissions now fix the rates charged by the utilities operating in the several states and it is hard to conceive that the Federal Commission will look after the interests of the consumers of light and power any more efficiently than the present State Commissions. Do the visionaries at Washington think that a United States Commissioner will be any more efficient than a State Commissioner, that he will be less human and less susceptible to temptation? It will in all probability be discovered in due time that private ownership has it all over public ownership.

If the President and Senator George Norris had and still have a margin for the building of dams they might turn their attention to building them for flood control. A Texas flood has just devastated California to the tune of about $250,000,000. California gets these visitations every few years. And $250,000,000 is just a drop in the bucket when flood damage is considered over the whole nation. Start with the New England rivers and continue west and south and the annual damage runs into the billions—if any one knows what a billion dollars are.

And flood control dams can not be used for the production of power.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT (Copyright, 1938)

There Should Be Strings

WASHINGTON, April 30. THERE ARE two reasons the $1,500,000 WPA appropriation asked by the President is expected to go through with great speed. One is that it is the only part of the new pump-priming program by which money can be made immediately available. The other reason is that it is needed to relieve distress, and no one in Congress wants to stand in the way of that.

HOWEVER, there promises to be—and certainly there should be—a determined effort made not again to turn over the vast sum of money to one man to apportion as he pleases without restrictions and almost without responsibility. That has been the case in the past and the result has been that a great deal of money intended for relief has been diverted into various channels not remotely connected with relief. This is not an accusation of dishonesty, but it is a charge that the unrestricted, individual control over so great an amount is bad in principle and worse in practice; that it gives to the individual far more power than he should have; that it breeds in him an intolerance of criticism, inconsistent with any proper conception of a public servant.

WHEN MAYORS of cities and Governors of States, members of the House and United States Senators are compelled to beg for money which one man can give or withhold at will, it is inevitable that an arbitrary spirit should be bred in him and belief procured in the infallibility of his personal decisions. As a result of this state of affairs there has developed one of the most powerful lobbies Washington has known—to wit, the Mayor's lobby, which Senators assert, works in close touch with the relief authorities. One Senator says that last year pressure for the passage of a relief appropriation was put on him by the Mayors of small towns in his State before the bill had been printed and before the Senate had even known what was in it. It seemed possible that the Mayors could have gotten their inspiration from any source other than the relief administration.

THEIR EXPERIENCE of the past four years, the political powers they know to be lodged in supreme control over these funds, the ability of an Administration to use this control as a club—these things would seem to induce members of Congress, as a matter of self-protection and self-interest to use their present opportunity to impose upon this new billion and a half condition.

THE CARPENTER
One time there was a carpenter Who worked with saw and plane And dreamed of shaping human lives And soothing mortal pain.

He tenoned heavy timbers, He mortised them with skill And dreamed of winning human hearts To do the Good Lord's will.

He fastened roof and side wall Of rafters straight and true And dreamed that men and women The Good Lords will might do.

But cedar, oak and cypress Took on that skill imports And easier is to work with Than stubborn human hearts.

He fashioned good and side wall Of rafters straight and true And dreamed that men and women The Good Lords will might do.

Poppy Day Message From Commander

Fred Poister, Of J. Wilbur Randolph Post Issues Exhortation To Public

ELLWOOD CITY, April 30.—Veterans of the World War were urged to pay tribute to their comrades on Poppy Day, Saturday, May 7, in a message issued today by Commander Fred Poister, Commander of the J. Wilbur Randolph Post of the American Legion.

Commander Poister called upon all members of the Legion and other veterans to observe the day by wearing memorial poppies in honor of the war dead. His message stated:

"On Saturday, May 7, our comrades who gave their lives in defense of the country will be remembered and honored by the wearing of their memorial flower, the poppy. We who served by their sides can never forget the great patriotic sacrifice they made. All Legionnaires and other veterans will, I am sure, be among the first to wear the flower of remembrance on Poppy Day."

"The Poppies will be distributed by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary, our wives, mothers, sisters and daughters. They are giving their services on that day to bring everyone in the city an opportunity to honor the war dead and help the disabled and fatherless families. The poppies have been made by disabled veterans unable to do other work. Contributions received for the flowers will be used in the welfare activities of the Legion Auxiliary."

"Twenty years have passed since the call to war came, but we of the Legion have not forgotten. We are still devoted to the ideals for which we fought and hold high the memory of those who died in service to country. We hope that all patriotic citizens will join us in wearing the poppy on Poppy Day."

"The Poppies will be distributed by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary, our wives, mothers, sisters and daughters. ## Seniors Present "Daddy-Long-Legs"

Annual Spring Presentation Delights Large Appreciative Audience

ELLWOOD CITY, April 30.—The large cast of seniors, who presented the annual spring class play Friday evening before a large audience that completely filled Lincoln auditorium, judging by the thunderous applause that followed the final curtain, will go down in the dramatic history of the high school as an outstanding one.

While the play presented, "Daddy-Long-Legs", is an old, familiar story to most people, its pathos and charm is ever refreshing, and those attending were delighted with the astute interpretation of the various roles. The scenery, especially that of the orphanage, was most effective and added much to the success of the play and a great deal of credit is due those who arranged this part of the presentation.

The story centered about the life of a young orphan girl, Judy Abbott, and her benefactor, whom she has never seen but calls Daddy-Long-Legs, and the manner in which she discovers who he is led to the usual happy, climatic ending.

Peggy Young was Judy and she played the heroine role in a natural and accomplished manner that befitted her assignment. Sharing honors with Miss Young was Bill Carbeau as Jerry Pendleton or Daddy-Long-Legs and he, too, proved to be suited to the leading role.

There were a large number of varied characters in the presentation and they each one filled their roles in a finished manner contributing much to the humor and smoothness of the production.

A difficult role was played by Miss Sarah Eller as the matron of the orphanage and she had no trouble in making the audience despise her, testifying to her splendid dramatic ability.

A character of the play that will long be remembered for her fine, humorous portrayal is Miss Betty Johnson, who was Daddy-Long-Legs' old nurse and keeper of a summer lodge. Miss Doris Shirley, the intermediary between Judy and her benefactor, played an important role and Miss Shirley is to be congratulated on her clear, modulated voice. Miss Alice Shirley, Miss Jean Morrow and Chester Swick enacted their assigned parts in a competent style.

Miss Elizabeth McKnight directed the play and too much praise and credit cannot be given to her for the complete success of the production.

AROUND CITY HALL

Finance Director James L. Pink performed the duties of Mayor Charles E. McGrath, the latter having been absent from his duties which are multitudinous. Pink performed like a veteran. He conducted a session of council, settled police cases, then conducted traffic court, discharging six autoists whom he believed had reasons whereby they should not be fined.

Several days ago City Controller S. L. Lockley submitted to council a letter in which he gave his reasons why appointment of temporary police officers should be made by council, instead of by Mayor Charles E. McGrath. He said that, in his belief, this should be done and also said that their compensation should be fixed by council. He expressed the further belief such appointees should be taken from the certified list. He also suggested that an emergency be shown, Mayor Charles E. McGrath took the names of proposed appointees before council. The appointments were named and salaries set that paid first year men. He then said that because the department was five below quota and illness and other reasons made the force usually shorter than five.

MODERN HOME FINANCING

It will pay you to investigate the New Castle Mutual's Home Financing methods.

If you are tired of that old-fashioned straight mortgage with its costly interest charges and renewal fees, we are sure you will be pleased with a New Castle Mutual Interest Reduction Loan with small monthly payments each month to suit your budget.

THE NEW CASTLE MUTUAL IS ALSO AN APPROVED MORTGAGEE AND AUTHORIZED TO MAKE FHA LOANS. We recommend this plan for those who need a higher percentage loan over a longer period of time.

he required temporary officers. Mayor McGrath said further that, inasmuch as the state motor police school would hold another class for training municipal officers July 1, he did not feel inclined to name them permanently until immediately before that date when several would be hired then named permanently, subject, however, to their passing the state motor police training test.

In connection with the absence of Mayor McGrath, it might be said that the duties of a mayor are many and varied. One minute he may be settling a serious police case, the next trying to induce a man to quit drinking in order that his family life may be more amicable and the next few minutes he may be discussing legislative business.

There were no police officers other than those in the detective bureau and traffic division seen around police headquarters Friday. Officers formed the shotgun brigades with guns as their prey. The shotgun brigades rode in scout cars to different sections and enforced the dog quarantine by shooting to death dogs found running at large.

WESTMINSTER PARTY ON MONDAY EVENING

Westminster college's alumni and former students in Lawrence county will attend an informal party at the New Castle Field Club Monday evening, May 2. A large group of graduates, according to Attorney Frank A. Hoyer, the New Castle group's president, had made reservations today.

HEARS CASE, HOLDS YOUTH

After a hearing yesterday, Justice of the Peace John T. Brutton, East New Castle, held John Pollock, 16, by youth, for the June court on a largely charge placed by Robert White, 17, D. I., as a result of alleged thefts from White's auto last October.

WAMPUM

With large audiences present on both evenings, "Tiger House," a mystery comedy, was presented by a cast composed of members of the Senior and Junior classes of Wampum high school in the school auditorium on Thursday and Friday evenings.

The play was produced under the direction of Miss Mary Elizabeth Wagner, dramatic director of the school. Music for the occasion was furnished by the school orchestra.

The cast of the play was as follows:

Erma Lawrence—Angelina Coespon, Aunt Sophia—Lois Martin, The Mystery Woman—Mabel Lynn, Peggy Van Ess—Marie Heller, Yame—Harry Davis, Arthur Hale—Joe Porter, Macintosh—Don Huffman, Oswald Kenna—Ray Wilson, Mrs. Murdock—Anna Quintana, Thompson—Frank Vitrol.

SMOKE SCARE IS CAUSE OF ALARM

City firemen were summoned to the home of A. W. Tindall, of Wampum, at 3:35 Friday afternoon, when gas from powdered coal used as fuel exploded, filling the home with smoke. There was no fire damage.

"Dizzy" Gets Kink In $250,000 Arm, Homers Help Cubs To Win

DI MAGGIO WILL RETURN TO GAME

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 30.—Around the major league circuit and in baseball gatherings everywhere today, the names of Dizzy Dean and Joe DiMaggio are coming in for more than their share of discussion.

For "Di Mag" will return today to his outfield post, with the New York Yankees, DiMaggio announced, and the Dizzy one is thinking about the kink he pulled in his $250,000 pitching arm yesterday.

Dean was logging them through the Cincinnati Reds in fine style when suddenly—as he put it—he "pulled a kink." Immediately Manager Charles Grimm yanked his ace, who showed little apparent concern over the injury. Dean asserted it was slight and even said he could have continued on the mound.

Homers Help Cubs
But just as the opera diva fears a "freak in the throat" or a cracking of a high "C" baseball batters worry over "arm kinks" which sometimes prelude the loss of "stuff" and ultimately oblivion. So it was with Paul Dean, younger brother of the "Me and Paul" duo, who is now struggling for a berth with Houston of the Texas league.

After the "great one" left the mound, dressed and sat out the rest of the game on the bench. Batters Russell and Bryant eked out a 6 to 4 victory for the Cubs over the Reds. Impetus of the win was provided by homers by Gabby Hartnett, Augie Cahan and Tony Lazzeri, the perennial youngster who featured the eight-inning attack on Derringer and Cascarola.

Completing his conditioning after his holdout campaign, DiMaggio returns to the peppy Yankees who managed to crawl up to the 500 mark by beating the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 4. Atlee Donald, Yankee rookie, weakened and was removed in favor of Johnny Murphy, who quelled the Bostonians' rally. Two of the Yankees eight hits went to Lou Gehrig, while Bobby Doerr knocked in three Red Sox runs with a pair of bingles.

Games Frozen Out
The National League leaders were idle, the Giants being frozen out in Boston, while the Pirates and Cards were forced indoors in Pittsburgh by wet grounds.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and Phillies put on a 12-inning thriller in Brooklyn, the Dodgers winning 5 to 4 when Hal Kelleher, who relieved Bill Hallahan, walked Buddy Hassett and forced Eddie Koy over the plate with the winning run. The Phils outlast Brooklyn 12 to 8.

In the other American League game, the Cleveland Indians stretched their league lead to a game and a half by taking the measure of the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 2. Russ Van Atta, who started for the Browns was forced out when struck by a batted ball on the pitching arm in the fifth inning. Including Kelleher's homer, the Indians batted out 10 hits off Van Atta and Bonetti, while Bob Feller yielded only eight.

Werber Steals Home
In Philadelphia, Billy Werber stole home in the ninth to break a 6 to 6 tie and give the Athletics a 7 to 6 win over the Washington Senators. Cletus Poffenberger, aided by Dixie Walker's homer with one on, pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 5 to 1 victory over the Chicago White Sox. The Sox got even runs off Poffenberger, while the Tigers slapped out 10 off Rigney and Brown.

New Castle Rifle Club Is Loser In Youngstown Match

Will Shoot With MacDonald Friday May 6th At Youngstown For Title

The New Castle Rifle Club lost to the Youngstown Rifle club last night at the Ohio range 944 to 953, and thereby lost the second half title in the Penn-Ohio Rifle League. The New Castle club won the first-half championship earlier in the season. Last night not one of the local rifle experts could get above the 190 class. Janski with 195 and Wilkens with a 193 string were the two Youngstown men who helped to upset the locals.

Monday May 2nd, the New Castle club will have a match shoot with the East Brady rifle team at the Cathedral range. The New Castle team, it was announced, has won the high team average again this year in the Penn-Ohio league.

The club will shoot at Youngstown Friday night, May 5, for the title with McDonald Ohio.

The results, New Castle: Dick Pugh 190, Miller 190, E. McBride 188, Harmer 188, Finley 188—Total 944.

Youngstown: Janski 195, Wilkens 193, Dickson 190, Pool 188, Dillinger 187—Total 953.

Other results: Ruby Moore 188, C. Pugh 182, Kilbreath 160, H. Allen 187, C. Ferver 152, H. Ferver 150, Van Horn 150, Mulcahy 151, Wadlington 148, Patterson 140, Hough 146, Hockenberry 137, Cooper 130, Hunter 134, Blythe 138, Watson 177, Kolmeyer 182, McKewon 175, Thomas 184, Zeigler 135, M. Moore 139, Hill 133, Jesse Moore 136, J. Davis 179, Glitch 173, Fleps 152, Kader 182, Armistage 174, Thompson 184, Heyer 180, Clemens 143, Mack 187, Wood 136, Trochier 178, H. Peck 183, A. Peck 178, Fowler 181.

One quality Rollie and Bugs have shown in common is talent. Hemley despite all his misadventures probably is the best catcher in baseball. Bugs was a fine pitcher. Odd, how many of the picturesque old playboys of the game were star performers. Old Alex, for instance, and Mike Demlin, and Rube Waddell.

Cesar Vitt has chastised Hemley twice with fines and suspensions. Each time the contrite catcher, who is a shy, gentlemanly chap when not inspired by the grape, has promised meekly to behave. The uncertainty of Hemley is a headache to the Indians' manager. With Rollie on the straight and narrow, the manager feels the Tribe would have a great chance for the pennant.

Warm Up! And How!
McGraw had the same kind of headache with Raymond. Time after time, Bugs reformed, but only long enough to get out of sight of McGraw. Bugs is the only known pitcher ever to drink a baseball. One day McGraw gave him a ball and told him to go and warm up. In told him to go and warm up. In told him to go and warm up. In told him to go and warm up.

McGraw liked Raymond as a pitcher. He used to say that Bugs had the easiest, most natural style he ever had seen, and when Bugs was cold sober and in there working, he was an artist. It was a pleasure to watch. Though in his wondrous as a giant, Raymond pitched with the finesse and knowledge of a veteran.

McGraw hated to admit Bugs had him licked, so he hired a Pinkerton detective named Dick Fuller as a comrade for the wandering slasher.

When Fuller was named Bugs' guardian, the Giants were in Chicago. Raymond insisted on seeing one of his bartender friends before going to the ball park. The Pinkerton man finally relented "for a minute". Raymond walked solemnly into the bar with Fuller and introduced himself and his companion. "I'm full-bug's Fuller". Then Bugs begged Fuller to let him stop to see one more old friend in the Loop. The detective refused. So Bugs trotted all the way to the ball park, refusing to enter a cab or a street car, and Fuller had to trot right with him.

Detective's Revenge
Raymond finally made life so miserable for his bodyguard that Fuller decided to quit, but made up his mind he would even for all the discomfort Raymond had caused him. So he gave Bugs a chance to disappear, following at a distance to see where he went. Yep, to a saloon. Fuller entered, grabbed Bugs, took him into an alley and gave Bugs the drubbing of his life. Then he hustled the pitcher into a cab and delivered him to McGraw at the Polo Grounds, declaring he had had enough.

McGraw suspended Raymond, whereupon the pitcher got a job tending bar, exhibiting his old Giants uniform in the window of the saloon. Bugs was 28 years old when his body was found on a vacant lot in Chicago.

Penn Carnival To End Today

Relay Teams Friday Set Several New Records, Cunningham To Race

International News Service Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Glenn Cunningham seemed destined to be just another name at the Penn Relay Carnival today.

The illustrious Kansan is slated to run an invitation mile with his perennial shadow, Gene Venzke, but if Glenn wants to get more than a mere mention he'll probably have to smash his own world's record.

For the relay runners, as attested by the one world and five carnival records they hung up yesterday, are in a 3,000-meter run already conceded to Don Lash, a sprint which probably will be won by Columbus Ben Johnson and several field tests among the 51 events due for decision today.

Fast Relay Races
But it would take a phenomenal performance in any of the special events to steal the spotlight from the ten relay races which carry with them the championship of America.

The weather man forecasts another scorching day. Lawson Robertson, Penn's great Olympic coach, promises another fast track, and the races of yesterday indicate another orgy of record-breaking.

Robertson shrugged helplessly when asked to pick a winner in any one of the relays.

"After what happened yesterday," he said, "it would take a better prophet than I am to predict the outcome of these races."

"Who, for instance, could have foreseen that North Texas Teachers would run the championship Indiana distance relay yesterday? Or that Wayne Rudeout would press three minutes for three quarters? Or that his brother Blaine would run a 4:10 anchor mile for a new world record?"

Watch Young Miller
"Who, indeed? So, therefore, this observer will do no more than point to the probability of these same two teams staging another great duel in the four-mile relay today."

Yes, and it would be equally futile to try to pick any of the high school relay team champions. These races have already uncovered the world's champion miler of a few years hence in the strong-limbed person of young Leslie MacMillen, of New York, the greatest scholastic miler the world has ever seen. This youngster uncovered a 4:19 mile—the fastest ever run by a high school boy—and there is no telling what he or others may do today.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Jimmie Steiner, the sergeant who takes your complaint then sends policemen scurrying after persons who commit infractions of the law, has bopped into the game of Bill and Bang and he is now occupying a managerial role. He has taken over the management of Jack Labrobe, a 300-pound colored and who caused Jimmie to smile more often than usual, and to dream of some day perhaps, being in the Big Money class. According to Jimmie, Labrobe is the most scientific boxer and best puncher in this section and reports he has matched Labrobe for professional bouts at Pittsburgh and Youngstown. Labrobe drifted into the city some time ago. He displayed a scrap book, containing newspaper accounts of his fights and Jimmie, being one of the first to see the notices, hurried Jack to an alderman's office where Jack is reported to have signed an "I do" contract which means that Jimmie will do the managing and Jack will do the fighting.

Monday night will be Punch Night and it appears as though there will be a rather interesting Evening's Evening at the Elks club, the Marching club having arranged to show ten amateur fighters in five bouts. Each member of the Elks has the privilege of being accompanied by a friend and indications are that the lodge room will be crowded when the referee calls the battlers to the center of the ring, gives 'em instructions and the time-keeper bangs the bell with a hammer. And by the way, if there is just a little perking up here of employment, indications point to an Op. or a tight arena. It now is being thought of and within their date arrangements may be actually under way to give the fans plenty of boxing.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The stock market today closed out the month of April in quiet fashion, with the trend irregular. Volume was the lightest for a Saturday in almost four years.

Changes through the general list were negligible with minus signs slightly in the majority.

Rails displayed a steady tone. Union Pacific slipped 3 points on its initial sale, but gains elsewhere in the group were modest.

Coppers, electrical equipments, chemicals and most steel finished moderately easier. Motors, rubbers, mail orders and farm implements showed little change. Eastman Kodak and American Can were strong bluechips.

International Nickel and Union Carbide were among the new issues to suffer losses of as much as a point at their lows for the day. Howe Sound in the silvers gained as much.

Commodities were featured by further weakness in North American grain markets. Wheat dropped more than a cent a bushel at Winnipeg and almost as much at Chicago. Cotton turned in a dull and quiet day. Bonds were featureless.

Recalls Plug
Tobacco Of
50 Years AgoIn a letter to Pa. News, an old resident states:

The interesting reminiscences about plug tobacco, recall to my mind two popular brands, having large sales between 1880 and 1900. B and L (Buchanan and Loyal) was extremely popular, so was Old Homestead. A ten cent plug provided smoking and chewing in moderation, for a week.

Then there were Happy Thought, Climax, and many others. A slicing machine for plug tobacco was sold for twenty five cents, made up of a knife hinged on the end, mounted on a small wooden block.

For a real honest to goodness pipe smoke, I have never found anything equal one of those cakes of tobacco, sliced as required. Ask any old time smoker.

Hunter Is Named
For Important JobNational Radiator Corporation
Man Heads Technical Committee Of Manufacturers

L. N. Hunter, manager of the Research Department, National Radiator Corporation, with general offices in Johnstown, Pa., has been appointed chairman of the technical committee of the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers. The committee has been established to study problems which are common to the boiler and radiator industry.

Associates of Mr. Hunter consider his appointment as chairman of the committee as an outstanding honor, as well as recognition by the industry of his ability in research work. In forming this new committee the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers launches a new activity, as it has heretofore confined its work chiefly to sales and distribution problems. Other members of the committee are: J. F. McIntire, vice president, United States Radiator Company; R. E. Daly, director of engineering, American Radiator Company; S. K. Smith, chief engineer, H. B. Smith Company, and J. P. Magos, engineer of tests for the Crane Company.

The committee is at present considering means whereby a standardized method of rating boilers may be established. It is also co-operating with government authorities in an effort to arrive at a standardized method which will be acceptable to the government, as well as manufacturers, for establishing ratings for radiation. For many years the government has followed a method different than that used by the manufacturers.

Mr. Hunter states that the committee is also working on a research program to be carried on by one of the leading universities or scientific institutions. Thus far the meetings of the newly formed committee have been held at the University of Illinois in view of the extensive research that has been conducted there in heating and ventilating. Dr. A. C. Willard, president of the university, who was head of the School of Mechanical Engineering for many years, and who is one of the outstanding authorities on heating and ventilating, greeted the members of the committee at a luncheon during their recent session, and highly lauded their plans.

28th Division Vets Plan Reunion

At a meeting held in Sunbury, Pa., this week plans for the national convention of the Society of the 28th Division will be held July 14-15 in Sunbury and the above picture is of the executive committee of the society. Included in the picture are A. Lewis Conn, past national commander, and Frank T. Sargent, past national secretary, both of New Castle.

The Society conventions are increasing each year. The one held in New Castle in 1937 was the best of the five or six that had been held. The one in Sunbury is expected to surpass that of New Castle. A number of innovations used at the New Castle convention are being copied by the Sunbury convention committee.

Featuring the Sunbury convention will be the dedication of a memorial to the memory of the late General Clements who at one time commanded the division.

Plans for the Spring Roll Call Rally and dinner of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, which will take place on May 27, are rapidly being completed. It was announced by Chapter Chairman Ralph F. Davis, today.

Bodenstein, executive secretary of the Chapter, who took up her duties two months ago.

Pope Starts On Spring VacationPope Pius Will Be Out Of Rome When Hitler Visits
With Mussolini

(International News Service)

VATICAN CITY, April 30.—Starting his spring vacation earlier than usual, Pope Pius left for his country villa at Castel Gandolfo today, accompanied by a large retinue.

Decision of Dr. Amleto Michelini, the Pope's physician, to advise his early departure for Castel Gandolfo will mean the pontiff will be out of Rome while Reichsfuhrer Adolf Hitler is here next week for his conference with Premier Mussolini. The possibility is not ruled out, however, that Hitler may visit him at the summer villa.

Express Alarm

The pontiff was on record with a new expression of alarm over failure of European nations to organize stable peace since termination of the world war.

Addressing the superior council for propagation of the faith, the pontiff said:

"The last war was supposed to have been the last war, the end of conflicts. Men said it would mark the beginning of a reign of peace."

"Instead, we see that it was not that, but in contrast the commencement of confusion. It is something which moves us to tears. God is allowing men to do as they are doing because his patience is infinite."

Helium Causes Jabs At Hitler

Germany Needs It For Dirigibles, But Are They War Machines?

MONOPOLY IS HELD VALUABLE

Central Press Washington Bureau 602 Times-Herald Bldg. By CHARLES T. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.
WASHINGTON, April 30.—Americans have had an opportunity to take some very telling digs at Herr Hitler in connection with Germany's bid for a supply of Yankee helium to inflate the Fatherland's new Zeppelins.

They have not failed to avail themselves of it, either. As we all know, helium is an ideal gas to furnishing lifting power to dirigibles because it is non-explosive, whereas hydrogen is as combustible as tinder. And nowhere in the world have helium deposits ever been discovered (any appreciable supplies of the stuff, anyway) outside the United States.

Consequently, the Germans have to buy from us or take their chances with hydrogen. So would any other country, for that matter, but none of the others is as much addicted to lighter-than-air transportation as Germany. For some reason, the Teutons are particularly dirigible inclined. And maybe, provided their method does have its points of advantage over heavier-than-air aviation.

REASONS FOR OBJECTION

The objection to export sales of our helium is based on the contention that our natural monopoly of the stuff is a valuable military asset, which we should not permit to get into the hands of possible future enemies.

Considering that the Germans are the only folk who seem noticeably wishful to buy some of it, this reasoning seems rather strongly to imply that we regard them, especially, as potential enemies.

However, there are many authorities who deny that dirigibles will amount to much as fighting machines henceforward. It is argued that they are too frail, cannot ascend high enough, are too slow and present overly obvious targets for anti-aircraft marksmanship.

"LET GERMANS HAVE IT"
"Let the Germans have a bit of our helium," urge these commentators. "We have more than we need, the sale will be money in our pockets, and if any helium-stuffed warcraft ever try to bother us, we will shoot them down in short order."

Chairman David I. Walsh of the senate's naval affairs committee, which has investigated the subject thoroughly, takes this view, on the strength of the testimony of numerous experts—to the effect that the dirigible, militarily speaking, is a back-number.

Moreover, the Germans say, "We don't want your helium for war purposes. We intend to use it for the inflation of commercial dirigibles exclusively. We will, in fact, definitely pledge ourselves never to use it militarily."

OPPOSED TO IT
It is just at this juncture that Naziism's critics begin to get in their effective jabs.

"What value," they inquire, "has a pledge from Hitler? None whatever. If such an inquiry came only unofficially, from the 'man in the street,' it might not greatly signify diplomatically."

But it comes from William E. Dodd, recently retired as United States ambassador to Berlin—because, as he plainly said, he could not endure the intolerant Hitlerian atmosphere there. It comes from Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes, who opposes helium sales to Germany under any circumstances. It comes from Representative Emanuel Celler, who, supporting Ickes, asks, "What faith can we place in a guarantee from Hitler?" It comes from Representative Samuel Dickstein, who demands a G-men's investigation of Nazi activities in America.

Nobody ever accused H. P. "Doc" McBride, superintendent of the Crawford Oak Ridge Home, of being a farmer. There is a suspicion that "Doc" doesn't know the difference between a silo and a cultivator but he is preparing to go into farming on a large scale.

Just now he is preparing to put in a large vegetable garden on the property on Atlantic avenue to help satisfy the appetites of the youngsters who are committed to his care. At the present time he has 10 boys and girls in Crawford Oak Ridge ranging from 6 to 14 years of age. Youngsters of those ages are only hungry once a day and that is all day long. And so "Doc" is scanning seed catalogues, finding out how to put in spuds and carrots and spinach and by the middle of the summer expects to have a garden that will be a delight to the eye. Thus far he has received no offers from the government of money if he does not plant some of his acreage.

By Monday, May 2, the street lists will be ready. Thomas C. Edmunds, chief clerk to the registration commission stated today. Under the law each county chairman gets 10 sets, each candidate gets one set. The number of sets is limited by resolution of the county commissioners and first come will be first served.

The arrangement made between the county commissioners and the Lawrence County Medical Society for the care of relief cases is working out admirably, it was said Friday by Welfare Officer Edwin O. Reed. When the new relief law went into effect it removed some of the responsibility from the county but added the medical care of all relief cases.

The commissioners arranged with the physicians, through their society, to pay a flat sum each month. In return the physicians agreed to minister to relief cases that needed it.

Out of the money paid each month no physician will get his usual fee for service, but in many cases they wouldn't get paid at all if the county was not responsible. From the county's side of it, the arrangement relieves Reed and the commissioners of the detail of arranging for doctors for those needing them. A relief case calls his own physician and the physicians submit a report.

A hearing will be held on the matter of the Neal street grade crossing, it has been announced by the Public Utility Commission. This crossing is a part of the proposed bypass street which would lead from Jefferson street across the new right of way acquired by the city running along the Neshannock river, to Mill to Grove to Neal and then on across the old Harmony right of way to Taylor street.

Two Beaver Falls gentlemen who forgot to get a fishing license for their fishing in Lawrence county are in the county jail as guests of Sheriff M. M. Ingham for 25 days. They were arrested in the Ellwood City district and Squire S. Y. Doubs did the rest. They are Frank Savare and John Trn.
